

LONDON THEATRE

London's world famous theatre scene plays host not only to international hit musicals (many of which began in London), but productions that have successfully made the transition from New York's Broadway. With big budget shows and innovative drama/satirical plays, London's theatres consistently attract the cream of British, American and International stars such as Madonna, Gwyneth Paltrow, Kathleen Turner, Kevin Spacey and Nicole Kidman. However, as well as established box office smashes, London has a vibrant fringe theatre scene, where productions (usually staged at smaller venues for limited periods) can be seen for a fraction of the cost of the most popular musicals and plays.
